Lot-holders followed regulations at St. Michael's

This receipt found in a box of old forgotten papers was signed by Rev. Philip McEnroe and dated 1911, proved that John Levan paid for burial in a lot in St. Michael's Cemetery. At the bottom of his receipt, a list of six regulations mentioned that the Cemetery and Holy Infancy Catholic Church remained under the authority of the Diocese of Philadelphia until Jan. 28, 1961, when Pope John XXIII established the Diocese of Allentown, comprised of Lehigh, Berks, Carbon, Northampton and Schuylkill counties.

Happy Days at Gus's

Dwarfed between two houses and sporting its signature striped awning, Gus's provided good meals and great coffee, especially for Lehigh students and faculty. Originally located on the corner of New St. and W. Packer Ave., Gus's started as a grocery store and snack shop. Having survived redevelopment in 1958, Gus's moved to 474 Verona St. (shown below), where it remained until Lehigh's expansion project in 1966, when it and the surrounding homes became ghosts of the Vanished Neighborhood.

Gus's patrons enjoyed hot coffee and cool pin ball machines.

On Verona St., Gus's awning is seen from the corner of New St. and W. Packer Ave.
